Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The American Fire-Alarm Telegraph: A Lecture Delivered Before the Smithsonian Institution, March, 1855 There are few positions more imposing than to stand at the Capital of a country like our own, made up of confederated States, each State made up of confederated counties, each county, perhaps, made up of confederated townships; every part, from the least to the greatest, conspiring to form an organized whole - one nation, one people. From such a Centre it is natural to look abroad over the fair land, at territories and commonwealths, at cities and hamlets, whose interests and national life are thus interwoven into one, and to ask what are the laws and what the means of organization by which Civilization attains these her great ends? It is natural, from such a point of view, to inquire into the general laws of relation by which parts are intelligently bound together to form a composite whole for some end of use or beauty, that is, the laws of relation by which every organization, every mechanism, in the high sense of that word, is formed.
