This memoir conveys the experiences, first of my parents and subsequently of our family, the only Chinese people living in Macon, Georgia between 1928 and 1956. It describes our family's isolated existence running a laundry, enduring loneliness as well as racial prejudice for over 20 years, explains why and how it moved across the continent to live in San Francisco near a Chinese community, and relates how each family member adjusted to the challenges and opportunities of their new lives. Some Review Excerpts. . . fascinating and insightful account of Chinese-American family life. . . charming and information. . . Paul Rosenblatt, U. of Minnesota . . . woven with genuine scholarship. . . masterful bit of storytelling. . . Ronald Gallimore, Distinguished Professor Emeritus, UCLA. . . a unique view of ethnic identity. . . fascinating insights. . . what it means to be Chinese when there is no Chinese community. . . and the way subsequent experiences in and out of a Chinese community further shape this process.
